Body Positioning Swimwear

At Speedo we understand how important creating the optimum body position in the water is and how that position can deliver an improved swim. That is why we have developed our most advanced body positioning swimwear range yet.

- A good swim technique is essential to help you get the most from your swim and this is helped by having a good body position
- Keeping your body horizontal in the water minimizes drag and energy - your core helps you maintain the correct position
- The better your body position, the more stable you will be and more able to propel yourself through the water faster
- By engaging your core muscles and keeping them tight, you can help lock your body in the right position. This makes it easier to maintain a horizontal and more efficient swim position for longer

Technology

Hydro Raise

The perfect training partner, Hydroraise features targeted neoprene panels which actively lift your legs in the water. Suitable for use in all four strokes, Hydroraise offers great freedom of movement and the performance fabric is chlorine resistant.

Power Form Compression

Dynamic core compression is created through the placement of external power form compression contours. This creates high compression in some areas and lighter compression in others to improve your body position in the water.

Power Mesh Compression

Core support is created by internal power mesh panels. Core compression enhances your muscle awareness and promotes a better body position in the water, helping you to swim faster for longer.

Hydro Raise Female

High Bust Support

Compression, power mesh and a 360 under band keep the bust securely in place.

Targeted Neoprene Panels

To actively lift your legs.

Powerflex+ Fabric

Higher chlorine resistance than standard elastane.

Body Positioning Swimwear

At Speedo we understand how important creating the optimum body position in the water is and how that position can deliver an improved swim. That is why we have developed our most advanced body positioning swimwear range yet.

- A good swim technique is essential to help you get the most from your swim and this is helped by having a good body position
- Keeping your body horizontal in the water minimizes drag and energy - your core helps you maintain the correct position
- The better your body position, the more stable you will be and more able to propel yourself through the water faster
- By engaging your core muscles and keeping them tight, you can help lock your body in the right position. This makes it easier to maintain a horizontal and more efficient swim position for longer

Technology

Hydro Raise

The perfect training partner, Hydroraise features targeted neoprene panels which actively lift your legs in the water. Suitable for use in all four strokes, Hydroraise offers great freedom of movement and the performance fabric is chlorine resistant.

Power Form Compression

Dynamic core compression is created through the placement of external power form compression contours. This creates high compression in some areas and lighter compression in others to improve your body position in the water.

Power Mesh Compression

Core support is created by internal power mesh panels. Core compression enhances your muscle awareness and promotes a better body position in the water, helping you to swim faster for longer.

Hydro Raise Male

Low profile waistband
With internal drawcord for comfort and security.

Targeted Neoprene Panels
To actively lift your legs.

Powerflex+ Fabric
